United States Conference of Catholic Bishops - usccb.org

Solidarity is unity (as of a group or class) that produces or is based on unities of interests, objectives, standards, and sympathies. It refers to the ties in a society that bind people together as one. The term is generally employed in sociology, and the other social sciences as well as in philosophy or in Catholic social teaching. In addition, solidarity is a core concept in Christian ...

In sociology, "mechanical solidarity" and "organic solidarity" are the concepts of solidarity as developed by Émile Durkheim. Durkheim introduced the terms "mechanical" and "organic solidarity" as part of his theory of the development of societies in The Division of Labour in Society (1893). According to Durkheim, the types of social solidarity correlate with types of society, which are ...
